SCIENCE
POLICY
OF SIMULATION

CLOSING SESSION
Martin Warnke | Michael Resch
Martin Warnke studied mathematics and physics at FU Berlin and at Hamburg University. He graduated in theoretical physics and started work at Lüneburg University, where he did his Habilitation in 2008. Until 2010 he was chair of the Computer and Media Centre of the Leuphana University Lüneburg. In 2010 he became the managing head of the Institute for Culture and Aesthetics of Digital Media (ICAM), where he works as professor. Together with Claus Pias he is one of the directors of the DGF-Institute for Advanced Study on „Media Cultures of Simulation“ (MECS). His research mainly focuses on digital knowledge systems and computer simulations.

Selected Publications

Warnke: Theorien des Internet zur Einführung. Hamburg: Junius Verlag, 2011

SCIENCE POLICY OF SIMULATION

Martin Warnke | Michael Resch
Michael Resch is director of the National High Performance Computing Center Stuttgart (HLRS), which is one of the fastest civil computer systems in Europe. He is professor and director at the Institute of High Performance Computing at the University of Stuttgart and vice chairman of the Gauss Centre for Supercomputing. Michael Resch studied technical mathematics at the University of Graz. After being a research fellow and manager at the computer center of the University of Stuttgart he was assistant professor at the University of Houston, Texas in 2002. His research interests include informational technology, simulations, visualizations, mobility and transport.

Selected Publications

