

ECONOMICS

[MINOR]

In the Economics minor you acquire a solid understanding of how the economy and society function. You acquire a sound knowledge of micro- and macroeconomics. Building on this, you can deepen your own areas of interest, such as labour economics, monetary theory and policy, international trade, behavioural economics, gender economics or environmental economics.

The Economics minor equips you with the essential skills for many Masters programmes, especially in business administration and fields related to economics. You can study the Economics minor entirely in English.
