

Alternative admission tests for Bachelor courses at Leuphana University of Lüneburg

Applicants who are working abroad when the test is being set in August or are permanently living abroad can take an internationally recognised SAT (incl. Essay) or GRE test instead of the Leuphana admission test. This can then be taken into account if they are actually invited to take the admission test at a later date. The test results are then converted by Leuphana.

Please send an email with information about your work to Ronja Bartzke (bartzke@leuphana.de); an official document confirming your work at the time of the test for the respective major must also be sent in advance. Please note that SAT or GRE test results can only be recognised if they are received by the university in time, at the latest at the time of the test for the respective major.
