INFORMATION ABOUT THE TEST PROCEDURES

Cambridge English: Advanced (CAE)

The CAE is a certificate of the University of Cambridge, which is also a widely used admission certificate for universities in the UK. It represents the second highest level of a series of English tests (ESOL – English for Speakers of Other Languages) and includes general English as well as business and academic English. The CAE consists of the four parts reading, writing, listening and speaking. Applicants can prepare for and take the CAE in various countries and institutions. In Germany, preparation courses and well as testing sessions are offered for example by many adult education centers. The price varies according to the institution and date of application. Generally, it costs around 150-200 Euros.

TOEIC-Test – not applicable for GSS and IEL

In contrast to TOEFL, which mainly tests academic English, the TOEIC (Test of English for International Communication) focusses on the application of the English language in a professional context. The standardized test consists of 200 multiple-choice questions, of which 100 concentrate on listening comprehension and 100 on reading comprehension. The questions are based on authentic and realistic situations of work life (e.g. meetings, business trips, negotiations).

TOEIC-Test at Leuphana – not applicable for GSS and IEL

The TOEIC-Test can be completed at the Leuphana Language Centre. Annually, Leuphana offers up to 5 testing sessions between March and September.
