Motivation as your driver for a successful PhD journey

In this workshop you will deepen your understanding of what drives your doctoral project. You will explore the “Why” behind embarking on this journey and articulate a personal purpose-driven goal. With that goal clearly defined, both mentally and emotionally, you can start your research with greater focus and confidence. By the end of the session you will leave with a personal motto that will carry you through the inevitable challenges of a PhD.

Please register for the Introductory Session and the Seminar Discussing Research Ethics as part of the module “Engaging with Research Ethics” via myStudy starting 26 March 2026
