

FACTSHEET FOR EMPLOYERS

PROFESSIONAL MASTER'S DEGREE PROGRAMME GOVERNANCE & HUMAN RIGHTS

In an increasingly interconnected world, human rights and good governance are becoming more and more important for companies and organisations to ensure sustainable and responsible action. The Master Governance and Human Rights qualifies your employees to apply sound governance principles and lead projects to promote and protect human rights. This is not only crucial for human rights organisations, but also for companies that operate in international markets and are confronted with complex legal and ethical challenges.

Through further education in the part-time Master's degree or the compact certificate programme in Human Rights, your employees remain active in the company and incorporate the latest knowledge and impulses directly into their work. You benefit from new know-how for your organisation and can have current issues addressed in the course of your studies. This is how you develop your internal talent for future leadership positions, strengthen your employer brand and position yourself as a responsible player in the global business environment.
